Not illustrated. 1919 Excerpt: . view of the original understanding of the cities and towns that they should be fully reimbursed I feel that until legislation permanently assuring a just measure and one free from serious constitutional questions can be found, substantially the method of distribution now in use should be pursued. Colonization is now at an end, since intangible property can no longer derive any benefits from it. The taxation of incomes is at the same rate throughout the State, regardless of the domicile of the owner. I therefore hope that no hasty or insufficiently considered method or experiment will be tried out, which, although promising to equalize taxation, will put a premium on extravagance, retard the progress of many thrifty towns and cities, and place additional burdens upon the real estate. Respectfully submitted, ELMER L. BRIGGS. Net Gain--Or Loss--And Ratio--Under Various Methods of Distribution of Income Tax (based On 88 Figure--). Column 1.--Showing the net gain or loss from the present method of assessment of State tax and of distribution of the income tax if the State tax were assessed and the income tax distributed on the basis of a valuation including real estate, tangibles and the estimated value of intangible--. Column 2.--Showing the net gain or loss--from the present method of assessment of State tax and of distribution of the income tax if the State tax were assessed on the basis of a valuation including real estate, tangible--and the estimated value of intangible--and the income tax...
