Lupus, rheumatic fever, colitis, arthritis, dermatitis, insomnia, depression, hallucinations what do all these illnesses have in common They were all experienced by a 12-year-old girl in a case study in an American journal of child psychiatry. The cause mercury vapor she inhaled from mercury that had been spilled on the carpet in the room she slept in. After removing the carpet and treatment with chelation drugs, the girl returned to good health. Mercury poisoning can cause a variety of illnesses such as chronic fatigue, fibromyalgia, ADHD, bipolar disorder, sinusitis, tinnitus, balance problems, tremor, insomnia, inflammatory bowel disease, dermatitis, excessive thirst, salivation and a host of other symptoms. Is mercury from dental amalgams affecting your health Dental associations claim the mercury in fillings is perfectly safe, but the mercury inhaled from silver fillings is 15 times more toxic than lead. The World Health Organization report states that people with amalgams have a daily mercury intake of 4 to 21 micrograms of mercury per day. For many people this exceeds the Environmental Protection Agencies limit of just 7 micrograms per...
