Excerpt: . . . past as present--to be an act of the incomprehensible power of Christs Eternal Spirit I shall have by and by to point out that if, by whatever exercise of miraculous power, this precise point of the past were reproduced as present, it would not be the moment, after all, of the consummation of the sacrifice. It would be, on the contrary, a moment in the process, a moment indeed of transcendent importance, but still a moment at which, if you could indeed break off there, the sacrifice would be still not fully consummated. But my present point is that whether that moment is the moment of consum-1 Fulham Conference, pp. 48, 49.
