He studied two years in Paris at the Acaddmie Julian under M. Lefebvre and in the atelier of M. Carolus-Duran. About 1879 he began to show his pictures in the New York exhibitions, and at once made his mark. He is well known as a painter of portraits, figure pieces, genre, and out-of-door scenes. In water color he displays surpassing skill, his handling of transparent washes being almost phenomenally clever. His drawing is accurate and subtle at the same time, and his color schemes show agreeable harmonies of tint. Mr. Wiles was elected a National Academician in 1897. He is a Member of the Society of American Artists and the American Water Color Society. He...
