And, therefore, though he recount things not true, yet because he telleth them not for true he lieth not; without we will say that Nathan lied in his speech, before alleged, to David; which, as a wicked man durst scarce say, so think I none so simple would say, that Esop lied in the tales of his beasts; for who thinketh that. ZEsop wrote it for actually true, were well worthy to have his name chronicled among the beasts he writeth of. What child is there that cometh to a play, and seeing Thebes written in great letters upon an old door, doth believe that it is Thebes t If then a man can arrive to the childs age, to know that the poets persons and doings are but pictures what should be, and not stories what have been, they will...
